

San Antonio 2011 Llama Show Cancelled

The San Antonio Livestock Show & Exhibition has notified llama show superintendent Susan Leslie that they have removed the llama show from their lineup for 2011.

Llama entries have been low over the last few years, mainly due to the poor show barn/ring conditions that were available to us. The new arena area was finally completed for the 2010 llama show but SCLA was not given the time to spread the word about the much-improved stalling and show area before the decision was made to cancel the 2011 show. The organizers also said that it was too burdensome to give up what they call the "practice arena" (used for the horse show) on the weekend the llama show took place and was using that ring.

Susan made good arguments to try to keep the show going, but was overruled.

We give Susan our sincere thanks for her being willing to undertake this show.
